FIRST GIRL I LOVED: EMPOWERING THE LGBTQ COMMUNITY THROUGH FILM
Thursday, April 12, 2018 | Forum West | 6:30 p.m. - 9 p.m.
FACULTY COORDINATOR: PROFESSOR HELEN ACOSTA

Kerem Sanga wrote and directed FIRST GIRL I LOVED (FGIL), a film that tells the story of a high-schooler named Anne - played by UNBREAKABLE KIMMY SCHMIDT's Dylan Gelula - who falls in love with the most popular girl in her high school. FGIL broaches several challenging topics, including consent, sexual identity, and the emotionally overwhelming task of coming out as LGBTQ. Watch the movie and listen to a community panel.

Kerem Sanga premiered FIRST GIRL I LOVED at the 2016 Sundance Film Festival where it won the Best of NEXT Audience Award. Sanga has a degree in mathematics from the University of Texas at Austin, and he attended USC film school as an F Fellow. Brought to you in collaboration with Bakersfield LGBTQ.
